

The Curious Greenhouse

A FREE COLORING SAMPLER

Three pages to make your own.

One small palette to start the conversation.

Beautiful worlds, deliberately unfinished.
The reader completes them.

Let the colors tell you what time of day it is.

Let the colors tell you what time of day it is.

Let the colors tell you what time of day it is.

Begin anywhere.

A palette is an invitation, not an instruction.

Try these as a starting point, then add one color that surprises you.

Moss

for leaves, iron shadows, and hidden corners

Muted mauve

for dusk, petals, or a soft unexpected wall

Quiet teal

for glass, rain, and cool reflected light

Lantern amber

for one small place that feels warm

Print at 100% on US Letter, or choose Fit to Page on A4.

For markers, test first and place a spare sheet behind your page.

The full book holds 40 scenes. Find it and more studio notes at

lulusein.com/books.html